XVIII\textsuperscript{th} International Conference of the Society for Human Ecology

Human Responsibility & Environmental Change: Planning, Process, and Policy

Lake Las Vegas, Nevada, USA – April 20-23, 2011
Roundtable Discussions

The program includes a series of roundtable discussions on topics suggested by conference participants. They are designed to provide an open forum in which people can come together to raise questions, exchange ideas, and discuss issues. A few participants’ names appear under each roundtable theme in the program. These are individuals who expressed an interest in roundtable participation or whose interests coincide with the topic. We hope they will begin the discussion, draw in others, and help to see that the discussions are fruitful.

Chairing of Symposia/Paper Sessions

The scheduling of sessions is very tight. All session chairs are urged to begin on time and to monitor presentations and discussion carefully. Please try to end sessions five minutes before the starting time for the next session — to allow for re-seating and audio-visual set-up. It is critical that symposia and paper sessions do not run into the next period!

Audio/Visual Support

The MonteLago conference rooms are equipped with LCD projectors and screens. Unfortunately, they are unable to supply computers. A few laptop computers will be available at the registration desk. But, anyone wishing to use PowerPoint is encouraged to bring their own personal computer – or a copy of their presentation on a USB memory stick or thumb drive. Email addresses for presenters in each session have been sent so that they may coordinate among themselves in advance.

Local Travel and Dining

Why Las Vegas? We chose Las Vegas as the venue for this conference for several reasons. Many members are interested in the sustainability and viability of metropolitical regions with scarce resources. Las Vegas is the poster child for overuse and poor resource management. Or is it? We will have speakers who will address resources use and scarcity in arid environments using the Las Vegas region as a prime example of what to do and what not to do. Also there were some practical advantages. Las Vegas is easy to fly into and the conference rates in Las Vegas are very reasonable – both these things allow us to reduce your costs.

The MonteLago Village Resort is one of the most unique resorts in the Las Vegas area. On Lake Las Vegas, 17 miles from the Las Vegas Strip, the MonteLago Village was designed to recreate the feel of a small Mediterranean town. There are several restaurants within a short walk for the resort accommodations where you can find a wide range of dining options.

While staying at the village, there is a complementary strip shuttle that runs 3 times a day to drop off and 3 times picking up. It drops off at Planet Hollywood at 10am, 1pm and 5 pm and picks up at the same place at 1:45pm, 5:45pm, and 10:45pm. There are only 14 seats available and you will need to make reservations with the Front Desk ahead of time.

Keynote Speakers

Ian Douglas – President of the Society for Human Ecology, President of the International Council on Ecopolis Development (INTECOPOLIS) and Chairman of the UK UNESCO Man Biosphere Urban Forum (UK MAB Urban Forum)

“Water and Cities: Their Uncertain Future Human Ecology”

Ian Douglas is an Emeritus Professor of the School of Environment and Development, University of Manchester and previously was Professor of Physical Geography at Manchester and Professor of Geography at the University of New England, Australia. He has passionate research interests in the dynamics of tropical rainforests, especially the disturbance caused by logging, and in urban environments. Much of his research has been conducted in Malaysian Borneo, with wide connections throughout S.E. Asia and China. He has recently been the lead editor of a “Handbook of Urban Ecology” for the UK MAB Urban Forum.

F. Stuart (Terry) Chapin III – President, Ecological Society of America (ESA)/University of Alaska

“Earth Stewardship: Sustainability Strategies for a Rapidly Changing Planet”

Terry Chapin is a Professor of Ecology in the Department of Biology and Wildlife at the University of Alaska Fairbanks, where he joined the faculty in 1973. He was recently elected president of the Ecological Society of America (ESA) – the world's largest professional organization of ecologists – representing some 10,000 scientists in the United States and around the globe. Most of his research is about the effects of changes in climate and wildfire on Alaskan ecology and rural communities. He is especially interested in ways that communities and agencies can develop options that increase sustainability of ecosystems and human communities over the long term in spite of rapid climatic and social changes. Through his research, he tries to determine how climate, ecology, and subsistence resources are likely to change in the future. This information should enable people to make more informed choices about options for long-term sustainability. Terry teaches classes at the university and directs the interdisciplinary (IGERT) program in Resilience and Adaptation. Earth stewardship is an action-oriented framework intended to foster social-ecological sustainability of a rapidly changing planet.

Terrance (Terry) Fulp, Ph.D. – Deputy Regional Director of the Bureau of Reclamation’s Lower Colorado Region

"Managing Colorado River Reservoirs in a Changing Climate"

Terrance (Terry) Fulp is Deputy Regional Director of the Bureau of Reclamation’s Lower Colorado Region. Headquartered in Boulder City, Nevada, the Lower Colorado Region is responsible for the operation of the Reclamation’s water and power facilities on the last 688 miles of the Colorado River, from Lee’s Ferry in northern Arizona to the Mexican border. Fulp oversees programs that implement the Secretary of the Interior’s water master functions on the lower Colorado River and is also responsible for the Region’s water conservation program and the Lower Colorado River Multi-Species Conservation Program, a multi-agency effort to conserve and work towards the recovery of endangered species and protect and maintain wildlife habitat on the lower Colorado River. Fulp holds a Ph.D. in Mathematical and Computer Sciences from the Colorado School of Mines. He has received numerous awards, including the Superior Service Award, one of the Department of the Interior’s highest for career employees and was also awarded the Virgil M. Kauffman Gold Medal from the Society of Exploration Geophysicists for outstanding contributions to the advancement of geophysical exploration.
Barb Brents – Sociologist at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas "Globalization and the State of Sex: Tourism and Nevada's Legal Brothels"

Barb Brents is an associate professor in the Department of Sociology at the University of Nevada – Las Vegas (UNLV). She is a co-author of The State of Sex: Tourism, Sex and Sin in the New American Heartland (Routledge Press, 2010). Brents’ research uses a political economy lens to study sex and gender in market culture. Her recent work uses the sex industry as a site to understand the intersections of culture and economics – including the construction of “market morality” in political debates around sexuality; the relation between tourism, consumption and sexuality; the emotional and bodily labor of selling sex; and consuming sex. Brents is a founding member of Globalization, Sexuality and the City, an interdisciplinary project and network to encourage the production and dissemination of research on the intersections of sexuality, culture and economics across the globe. She has served on the American Sociological Association’s Council for the Political Sociology, the National Board of the American Civil Liberties Union and as President of the Nevada State ACLU.

Rob Mrowka – Conservation Advocate with the Center for Biological Diversity "Growth and Insanity – A Las Vegas Story"

Rob Mrowka, Conservation Advocate, works with the Center’s Public Lands Program to advocate for the protection and conservation of biological diversity in Nevada. Before joining the Center, Rob was an officer in the U.S. Air Force and had a 28-year career in the U.S. Forest Service, including time spent as the supervisor of Utah’s Fishlake National Forest and as a forest ecologist. Most recently, he was the manager of the Clark County, Nevada Environmental Planning Division. Mrowka has a bachelor of science degree in natural resources management from the State University of New York College of Environmental Science and Forestry, as well as a master of science degree in forest ecology from Washington State University.

Kirk Emerson – Founding Director of the U.S. Institute for Environmental Conflict Resolution at the Morris K. Udall Foundation "Cross-boundary Governance for Climate Change"

Kirk Emerson has had a longstanding career in environmental conflict resolution and collaborative problem solving, on topics ranging from climate policy and interagency cooperation to border security and wilderness protection. She was the founding Director of the U.S. Institute for Environmental Conflict Resolution at the Morris K. Udall Foundation, and previously, coordinator of the environmental conflict resolution program at The University of Arizona. Emerson is also a Research Associate at the Program for Advancement of Research on Conflict and Collaboration, Maxwell School, Syracuse University. Emerson has written on collaborative governance, environmental conflict resolution, property rights and environmental politics, land use law, and environmental policy. She currently teaches collaborative natural resources management and conflict resolution. She received her B.A. from Princeton University, her Masters in City Planning from MIT, and her Ph.D. in political science and public policy from Indiana University. Emerson is a member of the National Roster of Environmental Dispute Resolution and Consensus Building Professionals and a planner certified by the American Institute of Certified Planners.
Dennis Pirages – Professor of Political Science at University of Nevada, Las Vegas

"From Limits to Growth to Ecological Security: The Evolution of Environmental Thinking"

Dennis Pirages is Professor of Political Science at UNLV. He received his doctorate from Stanford University, and spent 32 years in the Political Science Department at the University of Maryland. He is the author or editor of fourteen books and monographs, including Global Ecopolitics, Ecological Security, and, most recently, From Resource Scarcity to Ecological Security. He has also contributed more than 75 journal articles and book chapters. He has been selected as a Lifetime Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. In addition to his academic work, Dr. Pirages has served in advisory capacities on energy and resource as well as science and technology issues for both major political parties. He has also served as the academic developer and coordinator of a mid-level professional development program for Foreign Service Officers in the U.S. Department of State. For several years he served on the Board of Directors of the World Future Society.

Stephanie Mills – Author and Lecturer on Bioregionalism and Ecological Restoration

"From the Pleistocene to the Motor City: Revolutions in Human Ecology"

Stephanie Mills is a renowned author and lecturer on bioregionalism, ecological restoration, community economics, and voluntary simplicity. Since her galvanic Mills College commencement address in 1969, Stephanie Mills has been speaking, editing, writing, and organizing for ecology and social change. Her books include Epicurean Simplicity, Tough Little Beauties, and On Gandhi’s Path: Bob Swann’s Work for Peace and Community Economics. A longtime bioregionalist and veteran of Whole Earth and CoEvolution Quarterly publications, Mills’ scores of essays and articles appeared in publications from Glamour to The Britannica Book of the Year and numerous anthologies. Active in her community, Mills helped launch a local currency in northwest lower Michigan, her home since 1984. Featured in the PBS documentary EarthDays, Mills holds an honorary doctorate from her alma mater and is a Fellow of the Post Carbon Institute. Stephanie has lectured at numerous institutions, including the E.F. Schumacher Society, the Chicago Academy of Sciences, and the Harvard Graduate School of Design.
